

Aphorisms on Beauty by Greta Frau

- Beauty is everything. Everything is beautiful
- Everything is beautiful. Try it!
- These are the days of the AllBeautiful flooding. Let the People know
- Suffering is a weakness. We no longer find it moving. We can avoid it and do something beautiful.
- I am only a simpleminded girl not inclined to philosophical tricks
- Abolish suspicion, replace it with thoughts of beauty. Always, even on Sundays
- You can't avoid Being, Beauty's neverending.
- My sweet girlfriends, tender companions, all of you, they don't need to believe my words about Beauty. They drink me.
- Beauty is not synonymous of Truth. Beauty paralyzes Truth and Falsehood
- Enough with creativity. To serve Beauty re-creation
- Beauty knows no laws since She's everything and everywhere. Therefore you'd make a fool out of yourself if you attempted to transgress it. A well bred girl would never give it a try.
- My girlfriends only wear brand new clothes, so should you
- Look straight into a school girl's innocent eyes. Then look again. And again. You won't see anything but eyes of innocent school girls. Beauty can also look innocent.
- All houses are beautiful. Walls are beautiful
- thoughts and words are beautiful, but reality and things are just as beautiful. Beauty runs restless and everlasting through all of this. Above, below, to the left and to the right, backwards and forward...it's just little ladies' sweet touch everywhere
- we can definitively stop skin from aging
- What is happening? What is happening? Nothing's happening, we are here. And Beauty is here with us.
- Honestly, I'm only a small lady, sentimental and beautiful. And my life is like everybody else's, like the life of Savage, the celebrated English explorer.
- Beauty can never be dangerous. As matter of fact dangers don't exist.
- Beauty will never change the world. Beauty is the world. At any given moment we can look at it.
- Beauty knows neither inside nor outside. Beauty is, there, in front of you, behind you. She always follows you, even when you turn your back on her.
- Enough with all this moaning, the planet is fed up with your crying, with the eternal echo of your wailing.
- Let's lay our arms down. Let's surrender. This is the time of Beauty.
- In a good looking world spike heels, also known as stilettos, issue an open challenge to the plugged senses
- The only everlasting thing in the world, besides life, is Beauty. Everything else comes to an end.
- They make such a big fuss, in vain, about Presence and Absence. False problems! Beauty is present. Always.
- Able and disable, aren't we all? Be beautiful, your beauty will make your sister happy.
- And what about God and the People? They're both beautiful
- To live according to Beauty is not an individual choice, it's a categorical imperative, it's an imposition which I grant to you
- A woman's patience is the greatest challenge against the artist's haughtiness
- Out with melancholy, in with courage, out with doubting, in with certainty, out with whining, in with duty, out with skepticism, in with faith, out with slippers, in with stiletto heels.
- At the end I'm only a little sentimental lady
- Everything is beautiful just because it is; young girls goodbye.
- Beauty has already triumphed, She's among us and inside all of us. Open your eyes and look at her! C'mon, take heart!
- In this new world we only allow cosmetology, philology and embroidery.
- Here, now the party never ends.
- My dearest aspiration is to enter and be part of your lives
- Enough with dreams, outlaw utopia! The world is perfect as it is.
- I want to be the one who warms the heart.